

PIERRE AND LUCE

Pierre and Luce

by Romain Rolland (1866-1944)
Translated by Charles de Kay

Pierre and Luce were an unlikely young pair who found themselves in the chaos of Paris during the war; Pierre, the shy, recently conscripted pacifist, and Luce, the free spirited artist in training, and both confused about the things going on around them. Why were these war birds flying overhead? Why these warning sirens, and occasional bombs exploding in the distance? Why did the government leaders, who didn't even know one another, hate and destroy so much? Why did these two delicate young adults find each other now? This story takes place between January 30 and Good Friday, May 29, 1918.

Romain Rolland

Total running time: 2:50:42

Read by Roger Melin

Cover design by Kathryn Delaney
The Kiss by Theophile Alexandre Steinlen (before 1923)

Romain Rolland

PIERRE AND LUCE